Political Principles

By Edward A. Wilson

Publication Edition – June 2026

What Frustrates Me About Modern Politics?

A reflection on political inconsistency, the deterioration of good-faith debate, the dangers of extremism, and the need for democratic institutions capable of resisting anti-democratic pressures.

What Problems Do I Think Are Most Important?

Key concerns include preserving democratic institutions, reducing gun violence, combating domestic violence, protecting civil rights, strengthening Social Security, expanding healthcare access, and ensuring equal opportunity.

What Role Should Government Play?

Government should act as a fair referee, protect citizens, maintain social balance, and ensure that basic human needs can be met while preserving liberty.

What Role Should Citizens Play?

Citizens should remain informed, engaged, and educated while serving as a check on governmental power through participation, oversight, and civic responsibility.

What Political Thinkers Have Influenced Me?

Influences include Benjamin Franklin, Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy, Bernie Sanders, Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, Jasmine Crockett, Ed Rendell, George Carlin, and John Lennon.

What Makes Me Different?

Public service should focus on improving society rather than personal enrichment, with government viewed as a vehicle for solving problems rather than preserving careers.

What Do I Want to Work On?

Democracy, civic education, domestic violence advocacy, political reform, public service, advocacy, communications, and governmental modernization.

What Job Am I Actually Looking For?

Opportunities in public affairs, advocacy, political communications, nonprofits, consulting, lobbying, government service, and related fields.
